Profile

Alain Bensoussan is a recognised expert in personal data protection law and a pioneer in advanced technology law. Innovation is in his DNA. As a lawyer and technologist, he uses his 48-year experience to provide legal solutions for disruptive technologies and help entities navigate emerging legal framework.

He is the founder and president of the Lexing® Network, the first international lawyers' network for digital and emerging law.

Skills

In 1978, Alain Bensoussan established Lexing, (previously known as Alain Bensoussan Avocats) a law firm that has been dedicated to digital law ever since. A pioneer in computer law in the 1980s, internet law and social media law in the 2000s, he is now leading the way in robotic technologies and artificial intelligence law.

He has been the publishing director of Planète Robots, a magazine entirely dedicated to robotics and AI, since June 2019.

His firm offers its clients simple and intuitive legal tools on a SaaS platform via its LegalTech, Lexing Technologies.
